Executive Summary

Key Conclusions

1. The Technology category performed the best in terms of profit compared to the other categories.
2. Among all the regions, the West recorded the highest sales.
3. The Consumer segment contributed the largest portion of overall sales.
4. A few states showed much lower profits than the others, indicating areas that may need improvement.
5. The average discount given across orders was around 16%.

Recommendations:

1. Since Technology products are performing well, the company can continue focusing on this category to increase profits.
2. Discounts should be offered carefully because giving higher discounts too often can reduce overall profit.
3. The company should look into the reasons behind the poor performance of some states and take
